The Ancient Kingdom of Benin and How to be a Geographer

Our history topic teaches children all about the ancient kingdom of Benin: how the ancient kingdom began, what life was like for the Edo people, the transatlantic slave trade and what we can learn from the Benin Bronzes. Our history topic links with our English texts: The Undeclared, Journey Back to Freedom, based on the life of Olaudah Equiano, and Coming to England - based on the life of Floella Benjamin.

Our geography project is all about the skills we need to be a geographer and then using these skills in fieldwork on our local area. Science includes living things and their habitats and electricity. In computing, we will look at coding, with a focus on the enigma code and visiting Bletchley Park.

Choose and research a significant black figure from the present day from sport, music, politics, education, art, theatre, film, human rights or the local community. Create an information poster about your chosen figure using paper and art materials or computer software.

Draw, paint or sculpt a bust of a significant figure from black history and write a short paragraph to accompany your artwork, explaining why this individual is significant. Figures might include Olaudah Equiano, Claudia Jones, Mary Seacole, William Cuffay, Lenford Kwesi Garrison, William Wilberforce, Thomas Clarkson or Elizabeth Heyrick. Invite your family to learn about your chosen significant figure.
